

GROUPS OF COMPANIES AND THE TRANSACTIONS IN BETWEEN: A QUALITATIVE ANALYSIS OF THE IN INTERNATIONAL AND NATIONAL LEGISLATION

Luciana Simona PASCU (MIHĂILĂ)¹

Mihaela MORAR²

Cristian PARASCHIV³

Abstract: The presence of the groups of companies in most sectors of activity, their significant weight in the world trade in goods and services and the importance of the transactions between them are the factors that have determined us to choose this research theme. In recent years, the formation of groups of societies has been a major phenomenon and, due to this, we consider it desirable to pay special attention to the legislation governing the work of these groups. Starting from this hypothesis, we intend to analyze the degree of similarity between the specific regulations in this field in Romania and the international standards in this research. In order to perform this qualitative analysis, we used the Jaccard similarity coefficient.

Key words: group of companies, affiliated parties, related-party transactions, Jaccard index

JEL codes: G34, G38, M48

¹ PhD student, "1 Decembrie 1918" University Alba Iulia, e-mail: luciana.pascu@uab.ro

² Universitatea Babeș-Bolyai, Cluj-Napoca

³ Universitatea Lucian Blaga, Sibiu